Objectives
The workshop is dedicated to judges, prosecutors and cybercrime investigators and other interested practitioners involved in investigating cross-border cyber crime and related legal matter. The meeting is intended to introduce the Directive 2014/41/EU, to provide information about the status of implementation and use of the European Investigation Order (EIO), and to discuss the approaches in collecting cross-border evidence in cases where cybercrime is a matter of investigation.

The meeting is organized by the DG Justice project LIVE_FOR with the long name “Criminal Justice Access to Digital Evidences in the Cloud – LIVE_FORensics” and goal to investigate the current implementation status of Directive 2014/41/EU within EU member states and the best practices in investigation of cybercrimes committed within cloud infrastructure services. The ongoing adoption of the Directive is considered a milestone for judicial cooperation in criminal matters in the European Union. The pace of the Directive’s implementation is slow and new practices are just emerging. The meeting have objectives to promote the Directive understanding and the implementation of EIO by mutual exchange of information and knowledge.

Who should attend
The WS is intended for prosecutors, judges, investigators, and practitioners in the area of cybercrime.

Cost of participation and subsidy
There is a limited number of subsidised places available for covering the travel and accommodation costs of the participants. The cost covering is available on a 'first come first served basis'.
